Please tell us briefly how any of the above learning activities (or other activities not included above) contributed to your learning in this course.

Comments

I really liked the half lecture half discussion based format of this class, I felt that it gave us plenty of opportunity to learn about theories and concepts in lecture, and then apply them to real life situations and current events in discussion.

Very straightforward course — lecture learning the content of the topic we were covering for the day, much of the impetus to prepare for the discussion portion of class fell on us as students

This discussion and news report assignment set up is really helpful!

Course Comments

What would you like the instructor and university administrators to know about your experience in this course?

Comments

I absolutely loved this course, and it was a great way to spend my first course at UVA, The small class size and set time for discussion really allowed for student engagement, which I thought was crucial to my understanding of the material. I generally am not the biggest fan of learning economic theory due to a usual overload of charts, graphs, etc., but this course was well designed and accessible to anyone, especially if a student has an interest in foreign affairs or government in general. Overall, an amazing course and I would highly recommend.

I enjoyed the structure of the course as it definitely contributed to my knowledge of the subject matter. I believe it works very well as a summer course.

This was the first time I've taken any course relating to political economy specifically, and it was a really great experience to have it introduced to me by someone as passionate and knowledgeable as Prof. Scholten. At times the concepts were a little difficult to grasp in the readings, depending on the background of the author, but generally it all made a lot more sense after Prof. Scholten broke it down to the nuts and bolts during class. Our professor was super accessible and approachable, and was always very gracious to everyone in our class.

This class is the awesome!

Comments

Professor Scholten, while never implementing his own opinion on any of the topics, provided the framework and tools for which students could answer looming questions on political economy. Professor Scholten always allowed for an open discussion from all students, and never limited any student because of their particular view on a topic.

Our class had a few international students that provided unique anecdotes or perspectives on some of the topics we covered, and Prof. Scholten always allowed anyone to share anything they felt was important. We all seemed to have come from diverse backgrounds and Prof. Scholten always paid equally diligent attention to any of our questions to make us all feel welcome to share or discuss anything we thought.

What constructive suggestions do you have to help Melle Scholten improve this course for future students?

Comments

My only suggestion, which you had already mentioned in class, would be to move the lecture on community to a prior week to align more with the race and gender lectures.

I thought this was a great course!

Something to possibly consider in the future is uploading the lecture slides prior to class, rather than after. Generally, Prof. Scholten added a lot of really great additional information during the lecture slides, and sometimes it was difficult to catch an additional relevant piece of information he may have talked about while focusing on writing down what is on the lecture slides. Most days I would have to go back and add the additional little supplemental tidbits afterwards. I think by making this change, it would allow both for higher–quality note–taking to supplement what is already on the slides, as well as helping with students staying better engaged with the lecture. As a student, when the bulk of your focus is on getting things written down, it sometimes causes your listening comprehension to suffer.
